

Presidential proxies threaten U.S.

Mandate: Any authority order or command the president has mandated we all have health care, whether you can afford it, want it, you must have health care or pay the price.

The Democrats passed a health care law that took $716 billion out of Medicare.

Who do you think is going to pay the price for this? I speak from experience, it's already happening to older people.

Our credit rating for the United States has fallen and, trust me, it will fall again. Never in our history has our credit rating fallen. Think about that. Sooner or later, we must pay the piper for all the spending.

We now have 9,000 new regulations. These regulations were to go to Congress to be approved or not. President Obama has yet to have Congress see them.

Of course, he thinks its OK because he's president. When you have our president breaking our laws, you have a problem.

This nation was founded on laws passed by the people, not one person.

We are now looking at another recession, worse than the last.

We were a strong and self-sufficient people. I wonder where we will be four years from now.

I pray each night for deeper faith, courage and strength to endure what is ahead of us all.

Regina M. Sherick, Columbia