

Governor Corbett's Lottery Plan: Best Deal for PA Seniors

Around the commonwealth, people are talking about how the Governor's plan to maximize PA Lottery revenue is in the best interest of seniors. Here's a sample of what people are saying:

The AARP of Pennsylvania writes that the Governor's plan to channel an additional $50 million in Lottery proceeds to existing home and community-based programs will "provide much-needed assistance to Lottery-funded programs designed to help older adults remain at home."

The Pennsylvania Association of Agencies on Aging, Inc. supports plans that "provide the opportunity to allow the PA Lottery to grow to adequately meet the demands of the commonwealth's current and future older citizens."

The Pennsylvania Association of Senior Centers is encouraged that Governor Corbett "is exploring alternatives which could lead to predictable, enhanced and sustained Lottery revenues that can be applied to more adequately support community senior centers and providing services that benefit elderly consumers living in their own homes and communities."
